Mutiara Kasih Ramadhani joined SSEK in 2018 shortly after graduating. Her practice focuses primarily on general corporate and commercial matters, including cross-border investment and financing transactions, oil and gas law, mining, shipping, and the pharmaceutical industry.

Mutiara provides transactional and advisory services to various companies, from startups to multinationals. She recently assisted in conducting legal due diligence of oil and gas and mining companies in relation to the transfer of participating interest and shares, advised a foreign investment mining company on its mandatory divestment obligation, and assisted a foreign bank on the sale of non-performing loan portfolios.

She drafted a distribution agreement for a major foreign pharmaceutical company, assisted a multinational financial services company on its loan to a Singapore fintech company, and acted for a Singapore financial services company in connection with the acquisition of a company engaging in electronic money services in Indonesia.

Mutiara is co-author of several publications on Indonesian company, mining and shipping law. She has also spoken at seminars on shipping and health law in Indonesia.

At university, Mutiara participated in several international moot court competitions, representing both her university and Indonesia at the 2018 Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition in Washington, DC. She received an Erasmus+ scholarship from the European Commission in 2017.

Mutiara is fluent in English and Indonesian.
