Bagas Ananta specializes in litigation, with a particular focus on suspension of debt payment obligations (PKPU), bankruptcy proceedings, and civil disputes. He also has significant experience assisting clients during investigations by the Indonesian police of alleged criminal violations.

At SSEK, Bagas has successfully represented a shipping company in a high-stakes tort-based class-action lawsuit involving claims of damage caused by ship-to-ship coal transfers. He recently assisted a Swiss investment bank in recovering substantial payments from various Indonesian entities related to debts arising from share repurchase agreements.

Before joining SSEK, Bagas spent two years at another prominent law firm in Jakarta, where he handled a variety of corporate and commercial matters, focusing on mergers and acquisitions, foreign direct investment, and licensing and regulatory compliance across multiple business sectors.

Bagas is fluent in English and Indonesian.
